Ensuring Your Customer's Insect Light Traps Are At Their Peak Performance

TECH TIP

Pest Control Technicians responsible for maintaining insect light traps play a crucial role in ensuring the optimal performance and effectiveness of these traps within customer facilities. Here are our suggested tips & guidelines for efficient maintenance:

- Technicians are advised to change lamps annually, typically within the range of every 9-15 months, ensuring that UV emission remains at its peak, maintaining the trap's efficacy in attracting and trapping insects.
- Lamps should be labeled as FEP or safety-coated to comply with local, state, and federal audit guidelines. Adhering to these guidelines ensures that the equipment meets regulatory standards for safety and effectiveness.
- Establish a routine maintenance schedule which includes inspecting lamps, cleaning the trap, and replacing lamps at recommended intervals.

By adhering to regular maintenance schedules and consulting with manufacturers or pest control specialists, technicians can optimize the performance of insect light traps and ensure compliance with safety and regulatory standards.
